The concert and exhibition given by the pupils of the graded school, Friday evening was very successful for three reasons. First, it netted the scholars about $40 for use in purchasing pictures for the school rooms; second, it showed the excellent training received by the scholars in singing and speaking, and their ability in responding to this trainand large attendance showed the interest of the parents and townspeople in the schools and their work. The program included 20 numbers, marching, singing and speaking, singly and in groups, and closed with a cantata by the girls of the 6th, 7th and 8th grades, entitled "The May Queen". Pupils of all the grades from the first to the ninth took part, and although it is impossible to mention each separately, the parts were all so well given, and the children so well drilled that no criticism can be made. It was an entertainment which reflected great credit upon the principal and teachers of the graded school. The Shakespeare club will hold a special business meeting and auction sale of books at Mrs. Folsom's this even-
